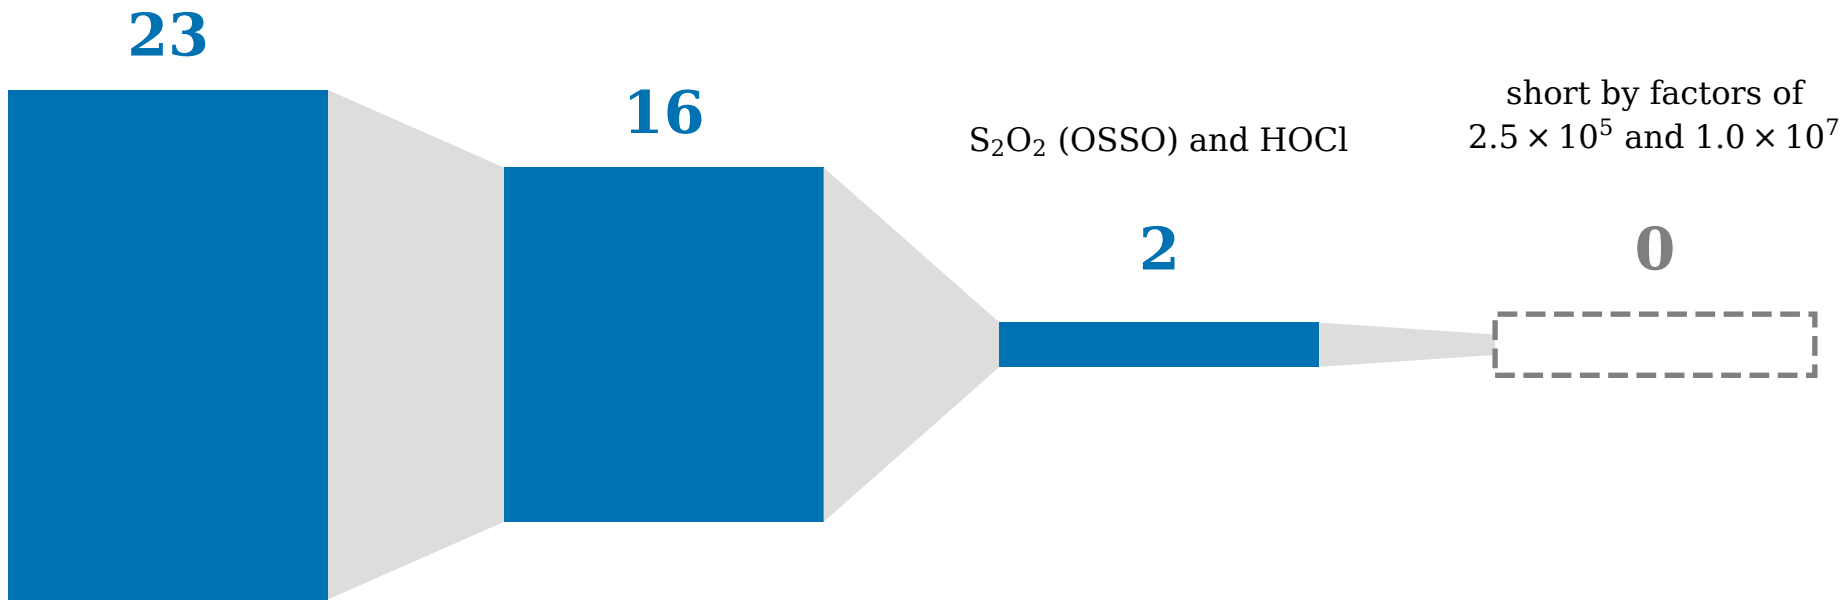
No species passes all three tests



Every pass mark is one the known absorber, which reproduces the observed brightness of Venus, itself meets.